

DUMBLE

Amplifiers

The amplifiers made by DUMBLE have become legendary and have been used by some of the most remarkable guitar players in the world. Players such as Stevie Ray Vaughan, Robben Ford, Larry Carlton, Lowell George, David Lindley, and Ben Harper all have used or are using DUMBLE amplifiers, thrilling audiences around the world.

Currently Made Amplifiers Are:

1. The “Overdrive Special”: This amplifier is the most noted and used since the 1970’s. It is now used by many guitar players in their stage appearances and offers tonal performance quite applicable to today’s styles.
2. The “Steel String Singer”: This amplifier has been a stadium and arena worthy instrument over the years, and was made famous by the late Stevie Ray Vaughan.
3. The “Mega PLX”: This is the newest entry in the amplifier lineup, but it is making a name for itself in the recording studios of Hollywood.

All of these amplifiers are custom made with high-grade quality components and are built to last for years of service.
